INTRODUCTION

Management and union representatives at Environment and Climate Change Canada (ECCC) are committed to maintaining and improving labour-management consultation as a means to improve the working conditions of all employees of Environment and Climate Change Canada. Consultation is a process for seeking and providing information and advice, exchanging views, and discussing issues at the level (e.g., local, branch, regional or national) that is appropriate to addressing and/or resolving issues in an atmosphere of mutual respect and trust. Consultation is essential in building relationships; it is an on-going process not limited to formal meetings between the parties.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

The labour-management consultation process within ECCC will be guided by the following principles:

- Utilizing the principle of early engagement;
- Recognizing and respecting each other's roles, interests and accountabilities;
- Communicating with each other in ways that promote common understanding, effective problem solving and continued enhanced relationships;
- Working to earn and sustain trust;
- Using a collaborative approach to problem solving and decision making;
- Honouring the agreements we reach;
- Giving each other the benefit of the doubt.

This framework is structured around four (4) themes:

- Improving governance
- Supporting the process
- Increasing monitoring
- Improving communications

Improving Governance

Commitment

The Deputy Minister, the Branch Heads, and the Union Representatives commit themselves to being leaders for labour-management consultation and to demonstrating their interest and support for consultation on an ongoing basis.

Management will involve the union representatives early in the discussions and/or development of, or changes to, a policy or an operational initiative that may affect the working conditions of employees.

Management encourages the active participation of employees who are union representatives in the labour-management consultation process.

The Treasury Board definition of consultation (see Annex B) will be used by all ECCC labour-management consultation committees (LMCC).

Accountability

To ensure the effectiveness of LMCC's, Unions and management representatives must be accountable for the effectiveness of the process and have the authority to make decisions within their respective jurisdiction on the matters that are brought forward.

Depending on the topic and the impact, the subject will be tabled at the appropriate level of LMCC for either consultation or information-sharing. As a principle, issues will be raised at the lowest level possible.

The various consultation committees have no authority to amend the provisions of the collective agreements or other regulations affecting employees' terms and conditions of employment.

Scheduling

Local, regional, branch and national LMCC meetings will be scheduled, in a sequence, which allows each level to feed into the next. When possible, meetings will be scheduled in consultation with all parties and in a manner that will facilitate planning and full participation.

Informal consultation meetings are strongly encouraged and may be convened at all levels on an as-required basis to discuss and resolve emerging issues in a timely fashion.

Agenda Management

The process of establishing the agenda is intended to be collaborative and consultative and liaison may be required to ensure:

- Resolution of the issue(s) has been attempted at the appropriate management level;
- The correct forum (Local, Regional, Branch or National) is proposed for the issue (subject and/or authority);
- Issues relating to an individual such as grievance cases must not be discussed in a way that would breach confidentiality;
- Determine who should participate;
- Ensure that adequate research on all items is done prior to the meeting;
- Guarantee efficient use of everyone's time spent, and;
- Ensure the effectiveness of all meetings.

Prior to the LMCC meeting, the secretariat support will send an email proposing follow-up agenda items as per the tracking tool (page 7) and requesting new agenda items to be provided within a specific deadline. Both parties commit to providing issues and context, within the allotted timeframe, on every item being brought forward for the agenda of regular LMCC meetings (see Annex C for mapping of issues). This will allow enough time to prepare the agenda and seek input from appropriate individuals. In addition, it will allow the secretariat support to secure the presence of the appropriate individuals.

When the context on issues is not provided prior to the meeting and when last-minute items or emergency issues are brought forward at the meeting, it is understood by both parties that the right people may not be able to attend the meeting and that some further research may be required after the meeting before a full response can be provided.

The secretariat support will endeavour to send out the final agenda two (2) weeks prior to the meeting and background information within one (1) week prior to the meeting. This will allow members sufficient time to read, prepare themselves and seek input from colleagues, if needed.

Secretariat support will be provided by the employer (i.e. LMCC Chair or Co-Chair EA/AA).

Minutes

The secretariat support will prepare the draft minutes in a timely fashion. Issues discussed, decisions or follow-up actions and consensus or disagreement by the parties should be reflected in the minutes. These will be distributed to all committee members for comments and approval. The approved minutes will be distributed to all members and can be posted on ECCC's Labour Relations intranet page. Each LMCC is to determine the best method to communicate minutes/decisions of LMCC meetings to their respective organization (e.g., branch, region, worksites.)

Supporting the process

Training

All LMCCs will identify on a yearly basis the committee's training needs and develop mandatory training, for joint participation wherever possible, in the following areas and others as required:

- a) labour-management consultation and framework;
- b) negotiating;
- c) conflict management;
- d) understanding the collective agreement;
- e) policies on preventing violence in the workplace and harassment;
- f) other areas, as required.

This training will be supported by the Joint Learning Program, to the extent possible.

Management and union representatives accept the responsibility to provide assistance and education to their new representatives to ensure effective and efficient functioning of these committees.

Orientation

For new employees joining ECCC, union information as well as information in regards to the labour-management consultation process is included in the Labour Relations section of the Departmental Orientation Guide for Employees.

Employer Facilities

Management will allow the use of employer facilities for fulfillment of the union representative's responsibilities (e.g. meeting rooms, e-mail access, etc) under the terms of current departmental and/or Treasury Board policies as well as in accordance with collective agreements.

Time and Costs

Where relevant, the applicable provisions of the collective agreements will be followed. In all other situations, the Guidelines on Time and Cost Associated with Union Management Consultation will be referenced.

Increasing Monitoring

Tracking System

HRB will ensure that there is adequate tracking to track action items at all levels of the framework. The intent is to track all action items, facilitate the movement of items between levels and to keep them updated so everyone can easily see its flow through the structure and the final outcome.

Each LMCC will be accountable for the maintenance of their information in regards to: minutes, decisions/actions and follow up.

Monitoring/Review

Management and union representatives will be jointly responsible for the effectiveness of the consultation process. It is recommended that all levels of LMCC undertake yearly evaluations of their process to ensure efficient use of the framework. This evaluation can be done differently and can be as simple as jointly completing the "Checklist for a Successful LMCC" under Annex A.

Improving Communications

Website

The following website contains information related to LMCCs in ECCC and it can be accessed by all ECCC employees: <http://intranet.ec.gc.ca/hr-rh/default.asp?lang=En&n=EFF4269B-1>

Communications

All parties commit to:

- a. broad communication of LMCC discussions and decisions;
- b. open and respectful communication between management and union to resolve issues;
- c. the proactive use of bilateral (labour-management) informal meetings when and as needed.

COMMITTEES

Although a core group of representatives is identified below, other participants including union officials and staff, senior managers, etc. may be invited, depending on the agenda, to ensure adequate representation at the LMCC meetings. When a guest is invited, the chair or co-chairs will be informed prior to the meeting.

All LMCC's can establish sub-committees where it is determined that a subject requires in-depth study.

ANNEX B

Treasury Board Definition of Consultation

Consultation is a process for seeking and providing information and advice, exchanging views, and discussing issues, at a level (e.g., national, regional, local, or specific occupational group) appropriate to addressing and/or resolving issues, in an atmosphere of mutual respect and trust. To be effective, the process must be based on an honest and open commitment, by both parties, to the sharing of information and to listening to each other's opinions, observations, and recommendations, prior to decisions being taken. This allows each party to understand the full implications of decisions and actions on their legitimate interests. However, some limitations must be respected. They include:

- The rights of management and the bargaining agent must not be compromised, encroached upon, or diminished;
- The provisions of collective agreements and statutes, and their intent, must be adhered to;
- Matters for which other formal channels have been established (e.g., Occupational Health or Safety, National Joint Council matters) must normally be addressed in those fora; and
- Issues relating to an individual such as grievance cases must not be discussed in a way that would breach confidentiality. Note: Grievance cases may be discussed in a generic way if such discussions provide a means to identify trends or underlying causes that would help in resolving the problem.

As a general rule, matters should be discussed at a level (e.g., national, regional, local, sectorial or specific occupational group) appropriate to the resolution of the issue or the problem. In some cases it is helpful to discuss matters that are being addressed in depth at a different level. For example:

- To provide information on the matter;
- To explain or define the application of a policy related to the matter;
- To discuss problems related to the matter with a view to reducing tension and promoting understanding between the parties concerned; and
- To communicate information when appropriate to other levels of management.

LMCC representatives throughout the organization should ensure they have a common understanding of this approach prior to addressing issues. This can include discussing the process or joint training.

TBS Policy on Meeting location, time and costs

Committee meetings should be held on the employer's premises and at times determined by mutual agreement of the parties. Meetings should be scheduled during working hours. Some participants may not have the resources or information required to participate and financial assistance or other support may be needed for their representation to be assured. This could include leave with pay for preparation or follow-up from the meeting and travel costs associated with meeting. In all cases, collective agreement provisions and/or applicable terms and conditions of employment regarding travel-time and leave for union business must be adhered to. Representatives on the committee or other employees who are invited guests shall be protected against any loss of regular pay due to attendance at meetings.

LMCC members should be permitted to remotely attend through teleconference.

Meetings must be conducted in accordance with the Treasury Board Official Languages policy.
